Plasma Fibroblast

The revolutionary Plasma Fibroblast procedure, created by Doctor Moretto in Italy, uses a non invasive probe which touches the skin creating an electrical arc precisely targeting areas of concern by a process called plasma sublimation. The skins natural cellular repairing mechanism is stimulated to remove or repair tissue exactly where it is needed without leaving any scarring and no damage to pigment, only leaving healthy fresh skin. With a course of treatments it is possible to achieve a lifting and tightening effect comparable to cosmetic surgery, without the requirement for a general anaesthetic, any incisions and no scars. Some conditions, such as skin tags, are treatable in 1 session.

Hair Reduction

How Does IPL Hair Reduction Work?

IPL stands for Intense Pulsed Light. This incredible technology is a safe and effective way to remove unwanted hair and is based on emitting high intensity pulses of light which is absorbed by the pigment in the hair to travel down the follicle and destroy the hair at the root. The base of the hair is heated to 70°C for a millisecond destroying the base of the follicle so no more hairs can grow. The successfully treated hairs then fall out over the next 1-2 weeks.

Is The Treatment Permanent?

IPL is the most permanent form of hair reduction available with current technology. A recent study showed that the percentage reduction in hairs after treatment using IPL systems are well above 80%.

Can All Types Of Hair Be Treated?

As the light targets Melanin(pigment), the darker the hair, the better the result. This is not a recommended method for removing white or red hairs, these clients would see better results from our electrolysis service.

Broken Capillaries
Age Spots

How Many Treatments Are Needed?

A course of at least 6 treatments at monthly intervals is recommended although this is very much dependant on the individual client and the degree of the condition. Maintenance sessions may then be needed periodically as a top up to the treatment.

Electrolysis

Permanent hair removal using a sterile disposable needle and diathermy method. The aim of the treatment is to cauterise the blood supply to the hair so it can no longer grow.

The client needs to be aware that unfortunately there is no quick fix treatment for permanent hair removal; electrolysis treats each hair individually and multiple treatments are necessary for effective results.
